HOW HE ESCAPED.

The Story as Told by the Guards on Duty.

It was on the morning of April 21 that the public was startled by the report of the escape of the two condemned murderers, Roble and Pallister, from Sing Sing Prison.

In their death cells, in company with Carlyle W. Harris, John L. A terrific storm was raging all that night. or such desperate work, and the two escaping murderers had everything in their favor.

Hulse, the first of the guards, went on duty in the death-house at 5.30 P. M., and he was to be joined there by Murphy at 9 P. M., after which both guards were to remain on watch until 5.30 A. M.

According to the story told by Hulse, about 7 o'clock Roble complained to him that he had been sick all day and had had nothing to eas. He felt better and asked Hulse to warm a platter of meat and potatoes and some milk on the stove in the death-house.

Hulse was obliging and obeyed the request. When the supper was warmed Hulse opened the door of Roble's cell and prepared to pass in the platters.

Quick as a flash Roble threw a handful of popper or some other substance in the astonished guard's eyes. Before Hulse could recover or cry out a hand grasped his throat with a clasp like iron.

He was forced backward into Roble's

The escape was not discovered until 540 the next morning. Hulse and Murphy remained locked in the cells all night.
As soon as the discovery was made the keepers were released and Warden Brown took steps to recapture the escaped murderers.

He telegraphed a brief statement of the escape with a description of the men to all the principal cities and started armed guards through Westchester and Rockland counties to track the men.

violate the very indefinite clause in the French treaty of 1860, and proceed to do as she pleases in restricting missionary work. She may be favorable, but I hardly talink she can help being a little narrow and excitative in accordance with her ancient policy for nundreds of years.

"I especially objected to this legislation because it was unnecessary. China very courteously has granted the United States the right to restrict the immigration of Chinese laborers for a period of years. Receiving this courtesy, why should we have passed a law offensive to the Chinese Government, Emperor and mandarina, as well as Chinese laundrymen and coolies?

this morning's meeting. The object of the Committee's meeting outlined in the resolution passed by the and upward United States Senate that a committee be United States Senate that a committee be authorized to make inquiry into the condition and character of the immigrants coming to the United States for the purpose of supplying labor for the country, and, further, to inquire whether the laws against the admission of laborers under contract are effectually enforced, and whether the immigration laws are economically administered.

The resolution further provides for an investigation of the workings of the new immigration laws and permits of the appointment of a sub-committee to take such testimony as may be necessary in furtherance of the investigation.

Senator chaniler moved that a sub-committee as provided for in the resolution be appointed.

He then locked his little grandchild in a room.

Thus left alone, he pressed a 38-calibre revolver against his right temple, and when his daughter returned she lound her father dead.

He had evidently stood before a mirror in the dining-room. The bullet went entirely through his head.

Mr. samuels had been summoned as a juror in Part II. of the superior Court, and spent nearly all oay in the court-room yesterdar waiting to be called.

Samuels was believed to be worth $75,000 in real estate and personal property. He was prominent in east side Masonic circles.

Br. Senner said: "I have about ninety-five employees on the pay-rolt. Gen. O'Beirne is my Assistant Commissioner, Johan J. Simpson is Superintendent of Landing, the office of Treasurer, third in importance, the most important offices under me. Here are the clerks.
